Honesty Declaration: Online Assessments

I, the undersigned, solemnly affirm that the work I have submitted is authentically my own in terms of the rules and regulations of the University of Johannesburg, the Faculty of Science, and the Academy of Computer Science and Software Engineering.

I am familiar with and accept the understanding of plagiarism in definition 4.1 given in the University's "POLICY: STUDENT PLAGIARISM" as follows:

"Passing off ideas however expressed, including in the form of phrases, words, images, artefacts, sounds, or other intellectual or artistic outputs, as one's own when they are not one's own;

such passing off, as an original contribution, of ideas that are one's own but have been expressed on a previous occasion for assessment by any academic institution or in any published form, without acknowledgement of the previous expression."

I accept that contraventions constitute a transgression in terms of academic regulation AR11.9.1(a) and this definition includes but is not limited to the unacknowledged use of:

- textual content including the arguments, conclusions, and formalisations contained therein
- diagrams including those which I have recreated or modified
- source code including by way of applying non-substantial alterations such as to the names of identifiers, the order of operations, and the design of interfaces (both user and programmer).
- software libraries and tools where such use creates the impression of having added value directly through my own efforts
- collaboration with others

I will abide by any additional instructions given as part of the assessment and understand that failure to do so constitutes "disregarding the instructions of invigilators or assessors" and is thus a transgression in terms of academic regulation AR11.9.1(g). In order to be marked this form must be completed and that by completing this form I indicate that I understand and abide by its contents.
